In today's regulatory environment, pharmaceutical, distribution and healthcare companies are faced with constant changes in federal and state legislation and regulations that affect everyday business. Although no common governance exists among the states, the states do maintain similarities in the way they define and regulate key areas of pharmaceutical marketing practices as well as licensing and distribution activities. To better understand the impact of these state-by-state regulations, Cegedim Dendrite's State Monitor Service offers surveys to assist the industry in monitoring these emerging issues.

This service is provided by a centralized, on-demand web-based tool that provides access to the most comprehensive pharmaceutical regulatory and legislative surveys available on the Federal and state level. The State Monitor Service has user-friendly querying that will enable members to search specific regulations or legislation for relevant information that impacts their business without the burden of manually searching lengthy paper-based documents. Subscribing members will also receive regular e-mail alerts regarding emerging federal and state legislative and regulatory issues, to assist them in their efforts to stay up-to-date and comply with ever changing laws and regulations.

Members who have logged on to the State Monitor Service find it easy to use and check it regularly for updates. Periodic tutorials are presented by State Monitor and AVDA staff and AVDA members are welcome to ask questions during and after the webinars.

AVDA member companies are eligible to subscribe to the following surveys:

Drug Pedigree

In addition, there is a chart that encompasses the following requirements for legend drugs and controlled substances for both in-state and out-of-state registration / licensure:

- Registration / licensure;
